Queensland's largest caravan sale set to capitalise on border opening

News that the Queensland border will reopen pre-Christmas should prompt a surge in road tripping setting up the state's largest caravan sale to attract a bumper crowd as it opens today at the Brisbane Showgrounds.

Caravanning Queensland has called the Showgrounds home for more than four decades, holding two highly-anticipated events each year.

Their pre-Christmas Let's Go Queensland Caravan and Outdoor Sale runs until this Sunday.

Over 100 exhibitors will showcase the very latest models of caravans, motorhomes, campervans, camper trailers, tent trailers, recreational products and accessories.

Caravanning Queensland's popular Weight and Towing master classes are back and set to be a well-attended feature of the 2021 sale program.

Jeff Palmer from Tow-Ed Qld, Dave Lewis from Weightcheck and Gary Gardiner from Total Towing Setups will provide the latest information and tips to ensure Queenslanders can hit the road on their next caravan adventure safely and with confidence.

Also on the agenda are a range of "Tech Talks" during which Caravanning Queensland's industry experts will conduct discussions on a wide range of topics from tips on how to tackle Cape York and Fraser Island in a caravan to staying connected on the road.

Brisbane Showgrounds General Manager of Venue Sales and Marketing Jago Coyle said the Queensland border reopening just prior to Christmas would prompt heightened interest in the state's largest caravan sale.

"The pandemic and international border closures had already boosted the popularity of road tripping but with the state's border reopening on December 17 should see even greater interest in caravanning this Christmas holiday period," Mr Coyle said.

"The RNA is proud to host such an iconic event that has been coming to the Brisbane Showgrounds for an incredible 43 years and we are expecting large crowds to flock to it over the next four days.

"The event's long-standing association with the Brisbane Showgrounds is a credit to our dedicated staff and versatile venue."

The Let's Go Queensland Caravan and Outdoor Sale is operating under a Queensland Health approved COVID Safe Plan.

The Brisbane Showgrounds precinct is located 1.5km from Brisbane's CBD and is Queensland's largest indoor/outdoor events site.
